The 2016 Corton-Perrières Grand Cru, which comes from 62-year-old vines, has a very fine bouquet with perfumed redcurrant and cranberry scents mingling with orange pith and a very subtle wild mint aroma. The palate is medium-bodied with supple tannin and well-judged acidity. This leans more into red fruit territory, tertiary in style with a delicate line of white pepper livening the finish. It does not quite possess the length, but it remains a well-crafted Corton. Eight barrels produced.
